

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In an image reading apparatus which has an image sensing unit for reading an image, and a communication unit for transferring an image signal read by the image sensing unit to an external apparatus, a detector detects the presence/absence of abnormality of the communication unit, and when the detector detects any abnormality of the communication unit, the image reading apparatus is set in a power saving mode.

10